

WE ALSO RESCUE

Voice for Animals works to protect all animals. Our aim is to see animals treated with the same respect that people treat each other. To help get that message across we focus on certain issues such as live horse transport, Lucy, rodeo abuse, promoting veganism and a number of other cases of animal exploitation.

We also do rescue work. People often call us in desperation because they have found a cat or dog and have been unable to get any help from the EHS, Animal Control or other rescues. This is where we step in to help find a solution for the animals in need. Sometimes it's easy – like finding a microchip but most of the time it's complicated. Sometimes it means saving an animal from being euthanized at other times it includes expensive veterinary care, finding a foster home and then a forever home.

Jimmy's Story

How he looked when rescued.

This little dog was found and rescued by a Voice for Animals' supporter. It didn't take Lynn long to realize that he was severely neglected, his matted fur hung down to the ground and there was a terrible smell coming from this little dog.

Thinking that he must have sores and infections from the severely

Jimmy: After being shaved.

Jimmy: This is the unbelievable, horrendous condition of Jimmy's teeth

This is Jimmy after his dental surgery and having the fur on his matted fur, Lynn shaved him as soon as she got home. The fur came off in one piece like a thick blanket.

Thankfully, there were no skin sores but it quickly became apparent that he had other serious problems. The foul smell came from his mouth, not his skin and he shivered and whimpered constantly most likely from pain.

The next day, I got a frantic call from Lynn explaining that the little dog's mouth was in such terrible condition that she couldn't touch his face much less shave it because he was in so much pain. Close to tears, she asked for our help. I realized he needed to see a vet immediately to get some pain medication. The little dog, now named Jimmy, got an appointment that afternoon.

Lynn, in tears, called me from the vet clinic and when I spoke to the vet, he sounded shaken. The vet told me he had never seen a case this bad and Jimmy would need all his teeth removed. Jimmy went home with antibiotics, pain killers and a dental appointment a few days later.

Jimmy has now had his dental (and neuter) surgeries and the antibiotics are starting to do their work. He has had his claws clipped and his face shaved but, sadly, the condition of his teeth had started to deform his jaw bone.

It has now been two weeks and according to Lynn, he is a different dog. He has started to play with toys and go for walks but most importantly, he is now able to eat soft foods. It was clear from his skinny little body that eating had been very difficult.

Although dental surgery is very expensive, Voice for Animals did not hesitate to step in and help this little dog. Jimmy now has a pain-free, bright and happy future. We really need your support to help pay for Jimmy's surgery and all the other little "Jimmies" that inevitably come along that need our help.

West Side Kittens Needing Homes

The three kittens, rescued as part of the West Side Family are now ready to go to their forever homes. All three are females and have been spayed, vaccinated and microchipped. They are a delightful trio who love to tumble and play. Their level of socialization ranges from friendly to cuddly.

If you would love to add one of these beauties to your family, contact us at info@v4a.org or call 780-490-0905.

Violet

She is the smallest of the three kittens and follows her sister's leads...she is also a

'Mama's girl'.

Penny

She is a short haired calico, white, gray and light orange and has a determined and curious personality.

Brigette

She is the most outgoing and independent of the three sisters. She is comfortable being picked up and cuddled and, of course, she loves to play.

We would like to thank the vets and staff at Edmonton South for their generosity and tender care of the rescues we bring to their clinic.

These are some of the campaigns Voice for Animals is currently working on. We need your support to continue fighting for these, and all animals in need. As an all volunteer organization, your donation goes directly to help the animals.
